The Architecture Practice at ASG provides intelligent designers available when you need them with the multi-domain expertise to ensure that as you embrace the expanding complexities of the highly virtualized, everything as a service, green "Cloudy" days ahead, you can do so with the assurance that appropriate forethought and planning will result in the resilient and cost-effective infrastructure and systems that scale with your business.

Virtualization of everything, in a word, means complexity. In a highly virtualized IT infrastructure, architecture takes center stage. Performance demands architecture. Yet, given the number of technology domains required to get it right, it is simply not practical or cost effective in many cases to hire and retain the required talent. At ASG, we've listened and responded with deeply technical, multi-domain skilled, seasoned architects that can be made available when and where needed. For more information, have your ASG Account Executive arrange a meeting with our Architecture Practice Leader.
